Course syllabus

Aims:

This introductory, practical short course will provide:

- an introduction to a coaching style of management and the GROW model
- insight into practical coaching skills and techniques
- opportunities to observe, receive and practice coaching conversations
- ideas for taking coaching back into the workplace

Content:

This short course will introduce managers to a coaching approach and a range of coaching techniques to support and develop their team members to raise confidence, motivation and engagement and enhance performance. Students are encouraged in a confidential environment to share their own experiences of coaching and reflect on how the challenges and opportunities they face may be met through coaching as a way of getting the best from the team.

Presentation of the course:

The workshop will be practical and experiential providing opportunity for discussion and reflection on concepts and models presented and their application to the challenges and opportunities managers experience; opportunities to practice and receive feedback on coaching skills and have coaching conversations relevant to their roles as managers.

As a result of the course, within the constraints of the time available, students should be able to:

- Define a coaching management style and its potential for enhancing workplace motivation, engagement and performance
- Understand a simple framework for structuring coaching conversations
- Appreciate the skills of coaching
- Take the learning back to their workplace
